Production Description

Support Customized services

FRP pipe is in the filament winding process, using quartz sand layer will strengthen, make its have sandwich structure, such as reducing the comprehensive cost of the pipeline, and improve the overall strength and stiffness of the pipeline.

High pressure FRP pipe is a new type of nonmetallic pipe. In its making, glass roving, soaking by low viscosity but strong adhesive bonding resin, winds around mould at the preset angle and layers. It has to be cured, released from the mould and then processed. Excellent corrosion resistance, high endurance, light weight and high strength are among its special properties

Multiple FRP Pipes support customization

Cable duct

Sewage pipe

sand pipe

Strict material select Adopt mechanism winding Uniform wall thickness Flat and smooth appearance

Size standard multi-specification

Common specifications large inventory
In accordance with the implementation of standards

Fine workmanship The friction resistance is small, the inner wall is smooth and smooth, and it is not blocked

Product Application
